

Credit Hours

The credit hours you will receive for completing the course are under the course title. Credit hours are measured in class hours and lab hours. In addition to class and lab time, students can expect to spend about two to three hours of study and preparation for each credit hour of class. Most one-semester classes average three credit hours.